DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-18, drawn to an electromechanical assembly for an electronic device, classified in class 361, subclass 800.
- II. Claims 19-33, drawn to a method for manufacturing an electromechanical assembly for an electronic device, classified in class 29, subclass 825.
- III. Claims 34-43, drawn to a method for manufacturing a cover part for an electronic device, classified in class 29, subclass 832.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the cover part does not need to be made by an injection molding process. The subcombination has separate utility such as protecting the electronic device from physical damage to the electronic components.

Inventions II, III and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the case relating to inventions I and II the product can be made by a different process, the step of electrically connecting can be made by using a conductive foil and covering up all the parts not needed for electrical connection thus making electrically conductive elements for connecting. In the case relating to inventions I and III the product can be made by using a single mould, to make the cover part, where laser etching is used to form the cavity.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for anyone of the groups is not required for any other group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
